The project has published five books and one special journal issue. Of these, three books are still in print, with their release expected in the coming months.

· Emir O. Filipović and Magnus Ressel, eds., Companion to the Later Crusades (1400-1700). De Gruyter, 2025.

· Mercedes García-Arenal and Gerard Wiegers, eds., Morisco Diaspora and Morisco Networks across the Mediterranean. Brill, 2025.

· Antonio Urquízar-Herrera, Borja Franco Llopis and Elena Paulino Montero, eds., Early Modern Narratives about Islam in Europe: a connected memory. Brill, 2025.

Below are the tables of contents for the three books, along with the letters of intent from the publishers.

LETTER OF INTENT

Leiden, 2 June 2022

Dear Professor Garcia-Arenal and Professor Wiegers,

I am writing to confirm that Brill Academic Publishers has been in dialogue with you to express an interest in publishing your proposed edited volume, entitled The Morisco Diaspora and Morisco Networks across the Western and Eastern Mediterranean.

The volume is intended for publication in the series The Medieval and Early Modern Iberian World (www.brill.com/memi). Although you both serve as members of the series editorial board, you have played no role in the series editors' decision-making process so far and will not do so in the future, having recused yourselves from all deliberations for this project.

The volume is funded by Cost Action CA18129 IS-LE, and is intended to be published in Open Access. The volume would be published in English.

The final manuscript, as delivered by you to Brill, will undergo external peer review by a minimum of two experts in the field. Final publication is contingent upon the manuscript passing the peer review, and Brill would expect you to take into account the recommendations of the reviewers before delivering the final manuscript.

I look forward to working further with you on this project.

Yours sincerely,

C. M. P. Hammond.
